THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

- 1. A new shipyard known as the "Ivan Lapcevic" Shipyard is being built on the right side of the entrance into the port of Domince. This shipyard is a composite part of the old shipyard on Korcula which is on the left side of the entrance into the port. While the new shipyard is still under construction, the old shipyard is operating at full capacity.
  - About 3,000 workers are currently employed in the new shipyard. They are divided into the following categories: mobilized reserve men, volunteer workers' brigades and paid specialists. Work is controlled by the Ministry of National Defense, while the workers are supervised by KNOJ members.
  - There is a KNOJ battalion in Korcula under the command of a captain. The battalion is composed of three regiments which are quartered in villas near the city park. Platoon detachments are located in Velaluka and in Blate. The KNOJ supplies guards both for the new and the old shipyards, and also patrols the coastal waters in motor sailboats. The soldiers are armed with Mausers, Soviet type machine guns, and light machine guns. The new shipyard is guarded by a company under the command of a lieutenant, which company also exercises control over the workers. There are 25 guard posts, which are reinforced at night. The entire zone has been proclaimed a "Military Zone", and no civilian can approach it.
  - 1. Several new quays have been built during 1949, and a dock has been completed for vessels bringing supplies and water from Split. Also a new cement structure has been erected. It is 100 meters long and 20 to 25 meters wide. The roof, which has not been completed, will be of glass. A new road, one kilometer long and leading from the shipyard to the port of Korcula, is under construction.
  - 5. In addition to the KNOJ, a unit of the "Industrial Institute Militia", numbering about 20 men, is also stationed at the old shipyard. Work on six vessels is being speeded up, and it is considered that these will be used for coastal patrol. The attached sketch gives an approximate description of the vessels and their corresponding dimensions.
